Employees unionize

After an earlier unsuccessful bid, the Minden and District Ambulance attendants have finally succeeded in forming a union. The bid to join ranks with the Ontario Public Service Employees' Union received full support from the attendants.

Alarm saves lives

A fire that razed an apartment above two of Minden's Main Street stores has been blamed on careless smoking. Thanks to recently-installed smoke alarms, no one was hurt in the blaze.

Sewer extension potential threat

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Dysart's proposed resort sewer extension won't receive final provincial approval for at least a year, and perhaps as long as two years.

Malcolm Foy, a co-ordinator for the Ministry of Environment's Environmental Response Group, says the project is under close scrutinity because of it's potential threat to the water quality of Lake Kashagawigamog.

The north basin of the lake is protected under the Ministry's Policy Two which states that no further degradation of water quality must occur and all reasonable and practicable measures are taken to reduce the existing contaminant loadings.

Policy Two applies to those lake trout lakes which do not meet provincial water quality objectives for dissolved oxygen for cold-water bodies.

Foy says the Ministry has expressed "grave concerns" about Dysart's proposed extension of a sewer line along the north shore of Lake Kashagawigamog, and the expansion of the municipal sewage treatment plant.

If the Ministry determines that the sewer extension will have a negative impact on the lake's water quality, Foy says it can choose to make an exception to Policy Two, or can recommend that the project not be allowed. It will be up to the Municipality of Dysart to request a deviation from the policy if required.

Foy says that if the expansion of the sewage treatment plant removes a larger amount of contaminants from the effluent and there is no further degradation of water quality, then the resort sewer line will not require an exemption from Policy Two.

Currently the project is going through phase two of a class environmental assesment for municipal sewage treatment works. This involves studying the various alternatives outlined in the draft proposal of the expansion.

The alternatives include:

"You, there. Stop before I shoot." That's what this little gunner seemed to be saying while enjoying one of the children's rides at the Rotary Carnival in Minden last Wednesday. In addition to the rides, the Rotarians arranged for a magic show, a youth orchestra and a live band for entertainment. There were games of chance and, of course, the traditional barbecued beef on a bun.

Key players lost in water levels fight

Two key players have been removed from the fight to increase water levels in Haliburton's reservoir lakes, but those remaining say they are determined to keep pursuing the issue.

Harry Davis, Reeve of Stanhope, resigned as chairman of the Haliburton Highlands Water Management Advisory Committee, and Natural Resources Minister Vince Kerrio was shuffled out of the Ontario cabinet. Both announcements came last week.

Davis resigned in the wake of comments made by Dysart et al Deputy-Reeve Bill Davis at the last meeting of County Council. Bill Davis asked Stanhope's Reeve why the water levels committee didn't meet during the summer months and Harry Davis responded that meeting during the summer won't solve the problem. "There's nothing we can do," he said.

Dysart's Deputy-Reeve said if the committee can't do anything, then it's "fruitless."

Harry Davis' resignation was effective as of August 1, last Tuesday. In an interview on Wednesday morning, Davis said he enjoyed chairing the committee to a point, but now it's "time to give it up." In response to the criticism that the committee should be meeting during the summer, Davis said, "we don't need more meetings, we need more water." He said he's had his share of complaints and his share of disappointments and "it's time that someone else took the ball."

Davis had planned to resign from the committee last fall, but was pursuaded by the other committee members to stay on in the interest of continuity and in order to pursue a meeting with Kerrio.

He said the comments made by Bill Davis at council reflected poorly on water levels committee members Jerry Strickland and Bev Robinson who have been very active in the struggle to amend the water levels situation.

Harry Davis says it's important that the committee is perceived as trying to do something.

Ambulance attendants join OPSEU

First grievance about to be filed

Haliburton ambulance attendants have finally succeeded in their attempt to unionize.

The attendants are being represented by the Ontario Public Service Employees Union (OPSEU), to which a large number of the province's ambulance attendants belong.

The decision to unionize was unanimous, and no attempt to block the move was made by the Municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden, which administers the ambulance service in Haliburton County.

This was not the first time the attendants attempted to join a union. In January 1988, the attendants applied to be represented by the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE). But the municipality requested a hearing of the Labour Relations Board and asked that if the ambulance attendants wanted to join a union, all municipal employees should be represented.

There was not enough support among the other employees of the municipality to justify the move so the attempt at unionization failed.

In May, OPSEU organizer Sandra Laycock was contacted by Haliburton attendants who wished to make another attempt to join the union. Laycock called an employees meeting to present background information on the union and there was 100 per cent support.

The union received certification from the Labour Board to represent the attendants on June 27. Laycock said this time the municipality didn't call a hearing, and given the overwhelming support for the union it would have been pointless to fight it. She said the campaign to sign up the attendants was very swift and took the municipality by surprise.

Laycock is surprised at the earlier decison regarding the attempt to join CUPE, because ambulance attendants are considered to have interests distinct from other municipal employees. She says the argument that all employees should belong to the union is invalid.

The attendants were "bitterly disappointed and disenchanted" after the failure to join CUPE, says Laycock.

On July 11, the process was started to assign a negotiator to the Haliburton bargaining unit so contract talks can begin, although it will probably be fall before the two sides sit down together.

Before the contract can be settled, the union plans to fight the Haliburton and District Ambulance Service's decison to remove one ambulance crew from call back status and receive coverage from Fenelon Falls. (See separate article in this issue.)

Laycock says the move may be in violation of the Ontario Labour Relations Act. Section 79 of the Act, says employers can not change the conditions of employment without written consent of the union.

The change in procedure was made after the union had applied for certification, and no notice was given. Laycock says the alteration is being viewed as an unfair labour practice because it means one of the ambulance crews in Haliburton Village will no longer be paid to be on call-back status after 1 p.m.

Laycock has written a registered letter to Ambulance supervisor Rob Luke but has yet to receive a written response. She says the municipality has retained a lawyer, although she hasn't discussed the matter with him.

Among the terms in the contract, the union will be seeking; a grievance procedure, job security, and full disclosure of wages.

Cabinet shuffle no surprise to Eakins

As expected, Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins lost his position of Minister of Municipal Affairs in last week's cabinet shuffle.

Eakins was one of eight ministers that Premier David Peterson removed from his cabinet. The recent scandal involving Patti Starr was responsible for much of the cabinet turn-over, causing five prominent ministers to lose their positions.

Star is alleged to have illegally diverted thousands of dollars in charity funds towards Liberal election coffers.

Eakins was untouched by the scandal but was reported to have been removed in order to make room for younger party members. Other veterans losing thier jobs for the same rationale were Minster of Natural Resources Vince Kerrio and Transportation Minister Ed Fulton.

Losing his cabinet position was not a disappointment, says Eakins. "I have no great regrets," he said in an interview on Tuesday morning. "I met with the Premier and he said he was satisfied with my work and pleased with my leadership." Eakins said the shuffle provides a good opportunity to let other Liberals have the opportunity to serve in cabinet.

Eakins is being replaced by John Sweeny, who moves over from the portfolio of Community and Social Services. As well as taking over the responsibilities of Municipal Affairs, Sweeny will also be the new Minister of Housing.

The new, combined ministry will be a big responsibility, says Eakins, and he hopes Sweeny has enough time to maintain personal contact with the individual municipalities.

The change in leadership in Municipal Affairs comes in the midst of the Ministry's most ambitious project, the restructure of county government in Ontario. Eakins has offered his support to help with the transition, but says he doesn't want to

The end of an era for water levels

This week marks the end of an era for the Haliburton Highland Water Management Advisory Committee—an era of tremendous effort, equal frustration and little progress.

Long-time chairman Harry Davis has decided to retire from the committee in the hope that new people and fresh ideas might open some new avenues to an eventual solution to the water levels problem plaguing this county.

Davis, who is the Reeve of Stanhope Township, deserves our gratitude for his tireless efforts and perseverance in spite of the overwhelming resistance. He deserves credit for keeping this important issue on the front burner while Trent-Severn Waterway officials, the federal environment ministry and, to a lesser degree, the Ministry of Natural Resources all wished it away.

During his years on the committee, Davis has managed to open doors that no one else could budge. Unfortunately, all those doors have all been blown closed by the winds of change at both the federal and provincial levels.

Top among Davis' successes on this issue include the meetings he arranged with former federal environment minister Tom MacMillan, and former Natural Resources Minister Vince Kerrio. He managed to convince both of these ministers of the importance of finding some solution to the problem of fluctuating water levels in Haliburton County Lakes.

Unfortunately, neither minister lasted long enough to see an end to the problems. MacMillan lost out in the last federal election and has been replaced by a less sympathetic Lucien Bouchard. Kerrio was replaced last week by Lyn McLeod as Minister of Natural Resources.

The slate has been wiped clean by these changes in political responsibility, making this the optimum time for Davis to walk away from the exasperating prospect of starting all over again. Although he has shown no sign of it, Davis' enthusiasm for this campaign must be fading. It's difficult to maintain hope when you've had the door slammed in your face so many times.

The question now is who can replace Davis. Whoever it may be had better be prepared for a long battle with few allies outside of the county and many critics within the county. This person has to regain the ground that has been lost through the recent changes. He has to find yet new doors to be opened. He has to convince Bouchard that he is wrong in thinking there is no problem. He has to establish a relationship with McLeod and convince her to carry on where Kerrio has left off. Most of all, he has to have the stamina to last through the many disappointments he will undoubtedly face.

It's a dirty job, but someone has to do it.

We need the strengths minority groups can offer

Editor:

A recent issue (July 24) of The Times carries a column which chastizes those who read it for their lack of compassion for minorities who now comprise a very large part of Canada population. Those minorities are as powerful and as much a part of this great county as those who profess to be the founders, the WASPS and the once majority who did exercise their authority to the detriment of others. But our country is changing—and for the better. We need the strengths of these groups to give us the stamina we need in building our country.

We need also to recognize that in being critical, we are being negative and destructive. It is easy to sit back and elaborate on our shortcomings. Some of us are full of greed, lust for power, quick to criticize, but it is the wise person who criticizes with compassion and is quick to have constructive alternatives to replace the criticism. Early in my career I was admonished, "Do not criticize unless you are prepared to offer a solution to the situation in question."

In this instance I would feel that the writer meant to direct us to the well known and not sufficiently practices principles of the Christian faith.

1. "Love your neighbour as yourself" - reach out to those who are in need or infirm. Feel their hurts and welcome them as you would members of a family. Practice the golden rule.
2. "Keep an open mind and listen with understanding and compassion to your neighbour's point of view judging him only when he is put to the test. Is it legal? Is it right? Is it best for all concerned?
3. "Speak to those who are considered members of minority groups. Get to know them and understand "where they are coming from" and why they react as they do. Above all minority groups to be cared for and nurtured are the handicapped, physically disabled and the elderly for each needs our love and concern as they are unable to fend for themselves. The elderly built this country and gave it the freedoms and prosperity we now enjoy. They deserve our respect and love.
4. Smile and be happy. Pass it on to everyone you meet. A happy countenance begets happiness. The "happy" disease spreads rapidly and infects not only your neighbours but your neighbours' friends and their neighbours and can spread like prairie fire. It is the door opener that encourages sharing.
5. Use what we have wisely. We do have much to be grateful for in a material sense. Overindulgence does no one any good. Moderation in all things should be our rule. Practicing moderation allows us to give to the less fortunate.

A friend of mine is an ambassador and once, when he was early in his new position, I asked, "Terry, what do you do as an ambassador?" He replied, "Basically I give the wealth of Canada to the less fortunate country I'm serving and see the money is properly used—this is my prime function, among others of course."

We forget how many millions of dollars are sent out of Canada to assist underdeveloped nations. We are not doing enough but we are trying. Not only are we trying through the government but through the many, many non-profit organizations that are reaching out with compassion into the third world.

People in our community have lived with concern for others, otherwise we would not have the fine community we enjoy. They have set an example for us to follow. Let's continue to do as well as they have done and do unto others as we would be done by. We have a lot to be grateful for and happy about.

Dick Thompson,
Halls Lake.

DLCA concerned about damage to the environment

Editor:

I am writing on behalf of the associated landowners on Denna Lake Road, Lutterworth Township rate payers and all citizens concerned about the environmental hazard being dumped on the Gladys Kellett Wruth property.

The Denna Lake Cottage Association (DLCA) are not the sole persons opposed to the decision of this raw sewage disposal site. The DLCA are only concerned about the environmental issue.

The petition was made up by the neighbouring property on Denna Lake Road and it wasn't so much the DLCA but the concern of every individual in the surrounding area.

It is in our opinion that the drainage, run-off from this solid and liquid waste will seep into the uninhabited wildlife area that runs just below the mentioned depreciation of property values.

The ecology of our area is a very fragile matter and it is up to property owners, elected township councils and anyone concerned to keep vigil on any changes being made to environment.

Pollution of our environment is completely unnegotiable.

None of the rate payers were ever notified either by the Health Dept. or the Lutterworth Council of the upcoming decision to dump the raw sewage on this land. We have yet to be notified of this by anyone.

We are still waiting for replies to our questions regarding this issue, but we are continually being bounced back and forth between the Lutterworth Council and the Health Dept.

Council has agreed to have this site shut down. But as we wait for answers, more raw sewage is being dumped. We hope this ball stops bouncing and these two can come to an agreement to shut it down permanently before it goes too far.

'Well, the way I see this country . . .'

black 'n white

by Arthur Black

I've done a fair bit of travelling across this country of our is the past year. I've visited places as various as Salt Spring Island, B.C. and Fredericton, N.B. I've been north as far as Yellowknife and south to Point Pelee. In between I've popped up at Banff and Jasper, Ottawa and Montreal.

Seeing that much national real estate in a relatively short period of time is probably not good for a citizen's perspective. it seduces a guy into issuing pompous generalizations and grand overviews that begin with phrases like "Well, the way I see this country..."

Here is my pompous generalizating grand overview: I believe I know what it is that Holds This Nation Together.

It's not the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and it's not Via Rail (Just as well, considering the demolition job the Tory wrecking crews are doing on what's left of those institutions.)

It's not professional hockey or Anne Murray that glues the national fabric together. Neither is it the Mackenzie Brothers, nor our habit of hitching the linguistic caboose "eh?" on to everything we say.

It isn't even the cross-Canada hatred for Toronto.

No, the single element that galvanizes this country into an entity, the one constant that pops up everywhere -- from office towers on Bay Street to The Yellowknife Inn on the shores of Great Slave Lake. The one thing that holds this country together is...

Detroit.

No, I'm serious. Detroit television programming is bombarding Canada and leaving cultural shellholes in places that are thousands of miles beyond that city's limits. You can watch Detroit news shows in Aklavik and Inuvik, in North Bay and Whitehorse. Kids in Thunder Bay and Atikokan are getting the Detroit murder count every night on the six o'clock news. It's all because of the CAN CON satellite service, which picks up the television signals from the three big Detroit TV stations and relays them into cable systems right across our country.

I don't know what CAN CON stands for but it sure as hell isn't Canadian Content. The stuff that spews out of Detroit, through the television and into Canadian brains consists of American game shows, witless American sitcoms and news and sports reports that are so Detroit-oriented even a Canuck in Windsor would feel left out.

What's wrong with this picture? Plenty. For one thing a whole generation of Canadians -- particularly those who live in remote areas without access to other channels -- are wired into one of the sleaziest metropolises this continent can dish up. Detroit is overcrowded, gang-ridden and slum infested. More people shoot each other in Detroit every year than anywhere else in North America. That's why they call it Murder City. All of this is reflected in the Detroit news shows every evening which often sound more like war zone body counts than news reports.

Not exactly a superb urban example for Canadian youth.

But even if Detroit was squeaky clean like Sesame Street it's still wouldn't make it right. Our kids stand a good chance of growing up knowing a lot more about Pontiac and Saginaw than they do about St. John's and Vancouver.

Which may come in handy. According to a recent survey most Americans would love to make Canada the 51st state.

Well, I guess they would.

I'm certain U.S. country singer Lee Greenwood would show us to a chair around the U.S. potbelly stove. He loves Canada -- he even wrote us a song. Actually it's his old hit "God Bless the USA" with 'USA' scratched out and 'Canada' penciled in. Mind you, he did rewrite one whole verse -- which includes the line "From Detroit we can see her/Above the USA..."

Think there'll be jobs for all of us at the Ford Plant?

Smoke alarms save lives in Minden fire

Smoke detectors are being credited for saving the lives of two people who were asleep in their apartment on Main Street in Minden when a fire broke out last Wednesday morning.

According to Minden Fire Chief Don Booth, there were two people at home in the apartments when the fire started before 7 a.m. Wednesday. He said they were awakened by the smoke detectors that were recently installed and were able to flee the smoke and flames with no injuries.

The early warning also gave firefighters the opportunity to save the building, which houses three upstairs apartments and two street level stores—Main Street Fish and Chips and Suzie Q Boutique/Country Fabric and Crafts.

Booth admits he was surprised they were able to contain the fire to just the one apartment. He said the fire was in full blaze in the rear apartment when they arrived shortly before 7 a.m. However, the quick response gave firefighters enough of an edge that they were able to get the fire under control within 20 minutes.

Careless smoking is believed to be the cause of the fire that started in a sofa in the rear apartment. That apartment was gutted while the other two received smoke damage. There was also smoke and water damage to the two stores below the apartments.

Although he had no damage estimate when contacted last week, Booth said the damage from the fire is extensive.

Booth said the smoke alarms were installed about a year ago when Jack Burley, who runs the fish and chip store, bought the building. He credits these devices with preventing a from spreading to other parts of the building and, perhaps, to neighbouring buildings.

"It gave us a chance to get there quicker," he said "Without them there would have been fatalities,"

A fire in an apartment above Suzie Q Boutique and Main Street Fish and Chips caused extensive damage, but the residents managed to flee the early-morning blaze without injury. Firefighters had it under control within 20 minutes, thanks to the early detection provided by smoke alarms.

Tax on a tax

Editor:

In the past years your Conservative majority government has made many decisions both popular and controversial.

The aim of government to get the horrendous deficit under control is as laudable and logical as it is a long overdue objective. I and the majority of Canadians support this effort completely.

I am writing to protest a glaring example of tax on tax which is both repugnant and injurious to the home owner and none more so than those who are on a fixed income.

The item of which I speak is the income tax one must pay on municipal taxes for a principal residence.

The money paid in the form of residential taxes is not now or has ever been income. Failure to pay this levy can result in the loss of the property, which is about the equivalent of a loaded revolver at a persons head.

The deduction of principal residence property tax from income should of course, have some restrictions.

Example: (1) One person to claim the deduction

(2) Apply to one principal residence

I can think of nothing that would benefit the taxpayer more than the small amount of relief that such a deduction would bring.

In addition, it would do a great deal to improve the image of Government these days of much adverse comment on monetary policies.

I would urge that this income tax amendment be given not only serious consideration but speedy passage through the legislative process.

C. M. Caverley,
Bobcaygeon.

Groups confused

Editor:

It has come to our attention that since the Neo-Nazi gathering in Minden, some of your readers have confused B'nai Brith with Baha'i Faith. B'nai Brith is a Jewish organization. Baha'i Faith is an independent world religion with its own Prophet-Founder, Baha'u'llah, and its own scripture. Because of its apolitical nature, its members seldom participate in public demonstrations, however peaceful, although in this instance sympathizing wholeheartedly with the viewpoint of B'nai Brith.

The governing administrative body of the Baha'i World Community has stated, "Racism, one of the most baneful and persistent evils, is a major barrier to peace. Its practice perpetuates too outrageous a violation of the dignity of human beings to be countenanced under any pretext. Racism retards the unfoldment of the boundless potentialities of its victims, corrupts its perpetrators and blights human progress. Recognition of the oneness of mankind, implemented by appropriate legal measures must be universally upheld if this problem is to be overcome."

We trust that the above will help to clarify any misunderstanding.

Levels down 4%

Haliburton area reservoir water levels have once again declined sharply over the past week. Severe drought conditions have meant that the average water level on July 31 is now 4% below the ten year normal at 70.9%.

The draw from the reservoirs continues to keep flows in the Gull and Burnt Rivers high. This condition is expected to stay with us for at least the next week.

Discharges in the Ontonabee and Trent Rivers are being maintained at their summer minimum. Levels in the Kawarthas are moving toward the lower end of their ranges.

(Prepared by the Trent-Severn Waterway, Peterborough, August 4.)

Spray program is demanded

Lou Cataford is looking for help to combat the 'deadly little beasts' that have invaded the Gull Lake area.

The appearance of a high concentration of Gypsy Moths on Gull Lake in Lutterworth Township has caught local politicians by surprise, buth they are now scrambling to see what can be done to combat next year's expected infestation.

Don Shortreed, chairman of Haliburton County's Forest Management Committee, visited Lou Cataford's property last week to view the hundreds of Gypsy Moths that have stripped his trees and are now laying their eggs. Joining him at the property were Lutterworth Reeve Carol Puffer, Deputy Reeve Jim McMahon and representatives from the Ministry of Natural Resources.

What course of action the county plans to combat these destructive insects remains to be seen. According to Puffer, Shortreed has pledged to soon call a committee meeting to devise a strategy. That strategy will then be presented at the next county council meeting in September.

Cataford, who is obviously upset about the arrival of these insects at his property, also attended last Tuesday's Lutterworth Township Council meeting to get his message across. He wants to see immediate actions taken to control the infestation.

"I went to the MNR. I got their pamphlets and I came to the conclusion that they're looking at preserving only valued forest," Cataford told council. "I went to Lindsay and I got the same thing. They have good general information but that doesn't get anyone anywhere."

Cataford suggested that if council is planning to look to the ministry for help fighting these "deadly little beasts", they will be dissappointed. "You're approaching the wrong people in the MNR," he said. "They wont spray their own forest, how can we expect them to spray ours?"

Deputy Reeve McMahon assured Cataford that the county's Forest Management Committee will be exploring every possible option. "Don Shortreed will follow through before next year to see what financial funding is available," he said. McMahon promised to keep Cataford up to date on the committee's progress.

If a spray program is to be launched, there is plenty of time to organize. Spraying for Gypsy Moths is done in the spring, when they are in the early caterpillar stage. The spray used is Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt), a bacteria that occurs naturally in the environment.

According to Cataford, he has initiated a petition of cottagers and homeowners on Gull Lake. By Tuesday there were 80 people who expressed an interest in having their properties sprayed and Cataford said he is optimistic the petition will grow to about 200 before it is done.

What Cataford was looking for from council was someone to co-ordinate a spray program. However, councillor Lisa Mercer said she would be opposed to the municipality collecting money from property owners to launch a spray program. She said the moths are on private property—"We can't collect private money and ringlead something like that." She said it would have to be done by an independent body. Puffer suggested that the Gull Lake Cottagers Association might be willing to take on the task.

Cataford, however, was disappointed with Mercer's response. "I'm disappointed that you took this attitude." He said this is a "massive undertaking" that shouldn't be left to just one person. "It's quite an arrangement to put together and I, for one, am not going to do it."

Puffer promised that council is very concerned about the Gypsy Moths and said they will be doing everything possible. The county and the municipality are already working on it, she said and urged Cataford to contact the cottagers association.

System more cost efficient

Residents will see no difference in level of service

The local ambulance service could trim as much as $6,000 off its annual expenses by altering its stand-by and call-back procedures after 1 a.m.

Dwight Thomas, assistant supervisor of the ambulance service, says service to Haliburton County residents will not be affected by the changes that have already been implemented. These changes entail calling in an ambulance from either Fenelon Falls or Bobcaygeon to go on standby whenever both the crews from the Haliburton and Minden bases are required to leave the area.

The changes will, however, result in less overtime pay to the crews at the Haliburton base.

In the past there were two crews in Haliburton and another in Minden on call back status after 1 a.m. If one of the Haliburton crews was called into service, a second Haliburton crew would also be upscaled to standby status and be stationed at the base in Haliburton.

Crews on stanby or active duty after 1 a.m. are paid at time and a half. Crews on call-back status are paid $1.20 per hour.

Under the new system there will be one crew on call back at each ease. However, in cases when they are both called out of the area, a crew will come up from Fenelon Falls or Bobcaygeon to be on standby at either the Haliburton or Minden base or to be centrally stationed at the Alsaw flats.

Because the Fenelon and Bobcaygeon ambulances are in service around the clock, the wages paid for these crews will not be charged to the local service. This is where the savings are derived.

Ambulance attendants who are on call-back are normally stationed at their homes and are to be available to respond immediately to a call. When they are called into active service or to standby service, they are paid time and a half at their regular wage. Since the second crew at the Haliburton base will no longer be required for standby, the local ambulance service will be saving that money, which amounts to about $6,000 a year.

Thomas says the new system is simply more cost efficient. Area residents who may require an ambulance will not see any changes in the level of service, he said.

Each ambulance service in the province is operated with a set budget established by the Ministry of Health. In Haliburton County, the service is managed by the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden, but all funding comes from the ministry. Since the changes aren't expected to alter the service's overall budget, the new system should provide a little more breathing room for the general operation.

All ambulance services in the area are dispatched from a central service in Lindsay. The dispatcher will still have the discretion of calling a Haliburton or Minden crew into service if deemed necessary, Thomas said.

In Haliburton County, there are two ambulance vehicles stationed at each base. There is a fifth vehicle, stationed in Minden, that is used as a Regional spare for extraordinary occurrences. This vehicle has been put into service only two times in the past three summers.

Rains, humidity dampen forests' Ministry lifts ban on open fires

The risk of forest fires in this region has been reduced by recent rains and high relative humidity, allowing the The Ministry of Natural Resources to lift the restricted fire zone that it implemented over a week ago.

The conditions are looking much better this week, said Dave Brown, Senior Fire Technician at the ministry's firefighting base in Haliburton. Although Haliburton was graced with only light rainfall, other parts of the region received a good dousing last week, especially in the Parry Sound area.

The restricted fire zone, which banned all open fires, was to be lifted at 6 p.m. on Friday. Weather forecasts are also looking favourable, promising yet more rain for the area.

The number of forest fires in the region so far this season had almost reached 400 by Friday morning, and Brown said they are still picking up the occasional lightning fire. However, he said they have been small and are not a control problem

Trent-Severn Waterways Report

On Monday, July 24, the reservoir lakes averaged at 76.9 percent of their normal full level. The sharp decline means that 1989 is now 1.5 percent below the 10-year average, but still 10 percent above the 1988 levels.

The past week's dry conditions has not allowed for a reduction on the draw of reservoir water. Flows have remained above normal on the Gull and Burnt Rivers causing the decline on the Kawarthas to stabilize. Navigation ranges are being maintained throughout the Waterway.

More of the same dryness will mean continued minimum discharges on the Otonabee and Trent Rivers.

ting sewage treatment plant with an outflow pipe to either Grass Lake, or Drag River,

—Building an additional sewage treatment plant on Kashaga Drive to handle the effluent from the resort sewer line while maintaining the existing plant to service the village,

—Retiring the existing treatment plant and having all effluent treated at a new plant on Kashaga Drive or,

—Expanding the existing plant and pumping the treated sewage to an outflow pipe on the Burnt River.

Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey says council supports expanding the existing plant with an outflow pipe to Grass Lake because it's the most economical. The Ministry of the Environment and the Ministry of Natural Resources feel that pumping the effluent to the Burnt River would address concerns about the water quality of Lake Kashagawigamog.

The Burnt River alternative is twice as costly as the Grass River alternative.

The next stage in the process is an environmental study report. After that is completed, Foy says an individual environmental impact study of the project could be requested by anyone with concerns.

Foy admits the process is lengthy and says it will "certainly take a year, and probably take a couple of years."

Fearrey says the delay could well mean the end of the expansion. "We can't wait that long. The project will be dead." The estimated cost of the expansion as quadrupled since it was first approved in 1986, and Fearrey says in two more years the price could climb another million dollars.

Local resort owners have said the price is already getting beyond their ability to pay.

Fearrey says the province keeps changing the rules everytime the project gets close to final approval. "Four months ago they told us we could be digging in the fall. Now we have to wait for two years."

He says, "one person in the Ministry has no idea what the other is talking about" and the proposal is being bounced from the regional office in Gravenhurst to the office in Toronto.

Fearrey says everytime a step is completed there is something else which need provincial approval. "We're being approvalled to death."

The feasibility study for the resort sewer extension was first done by Rysco Engineering in 1983. In 1986, the province approved funding for the project but the Ministry of the Environment requested an assesment of the capacity of the existing plant. In August of 1987 Totten, Sims and Hubicki completed the assessment and determined that the treatment plant would have to be expanded to handle the effluent from the sewer line. In June 1988 a public meeting was held and 20 people attended to hear about the project. Written submissions were submitted by seven people, who were mostly concerned about the water quality in Grass Lake.

Totten, Sims and Hubicki submitted a draft proposal to the province in April of 1989. It is this document which the Ministry of the Environment is currently reviewing. The resorts involved in the project are the PineStone Inn, Deer Lodge, Wigamog Inn, Locarno Resort, and Willow Beach Cottages. The resort owners have so far continued to support the proposal and have agreed to pay their share of the costs. Eighty-one per cent of the expansion is being funded by the province with the resort owners raising the rest.

Fearrey says he would hate to think the delays are the result of the province being unwilling to pay their share of the cost, but it's beginning to look that way.

Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins maintains that the provincial government is still committed to the sewer line extension and the expansion of the sewage treatment plant. He says there are many steps the proposal must go through but funding will be available when the Ministry of the Environment gives final approval and "all concerns are met."

Midgets set sights on semi-finals

Tough competition in the local men's fastball league has proven to be a tremendous training ground for the B&J Esso Midgets, who have been eating up the competition in the all-Ontario midget playoffs.

Tied at one game apiece, the Midgets will take on Embro tonight for the tie-breaker in the provincial semi-finals in Embro.

According to coach Kevin Smith, this is the first time a local team has gone this far in provincial play. Regardless of the outcome of tonight's game, he said he is proud of the way this team has played all season.

The Midgets have had limited success in their games in the local men's league, but Smith says the stiff competition here has forced them to play heads up. The experience has paid for the team as they dropped down to play against teams in their own age catagory.

The B&J Esso Midgets fought their way into the provincial quarter finals, where they knocked off Sheffield in two straight advancing to the semi-finals. Here they met up with Embro and salvaged a narrow win in the opener but lost their second game amid protests.

"The final tell-tale game is Monday," said coach Smith. "If we win, which I think we can, we will advance to the all-Ontario finals. If we lose we will still be proud of our 10 dedicated ball players.

The Minden Midgets fastball team is heading into the deciding game of a best-of-three provincial semi-final tonight in Embro. Shown here from the left are (front) Scott Nesbitt, Mike Hughes, Kent Taylor, Jay Bird, batboy Kirk Smith, (back) assistant coaches Mark Davis and Gary Smith, Craig Smith, Brent Flood, Jeff Sisson, coach Kevin Smith and Jay Hambleton, trainer. Absent are Jamie Hancock, George Simmons and Jason Scarlet.

MINDEN 19, SHEFFIELD 17

The opening game of the quarter-final series with Sheffield was a nail biter for Minden as they held off a seventh-inning rally to maintain the 19-17 win.

The game was held on July 21 in Sheffield, near Cambridge, and highlighted by the heavy bats of Scott Nesbitt, Jamie Hancock, Craig Smith and Brent Flood, who each pounded out home runs.

In spite of the heavy hitting, Minden was trailing 16-14 coming up to their last bat. They rallied with five runs in that inning to take a 19-16 lead before taking to the field for Sheffield's final turn at bat.

Sheffield's lead-off batter got on base and was brought around to score a run, narrowing the lead to 19-17. Finally with two out, two men on base and the winning run at the plate, a fly ball was pounded out to deep left field. Jeff Sisson came up with spectacular snag for the final out, preserving the win for Minden.

MINDEN 5, SHEFFIELD 0

The second game of this series wasn't as much of a challenge as Craig Smith silenced the Sheffield bats, pitching a two hitter and striking out 10 en route to the 5-0 win.

Coach Smith says his team dominated the field from start to finish in this game with sound fielding and solid batting. Jamie Hancock inflicted most of the damage at the plate, cracking a triple and two singles to score three runs.

"The boys hit the best I've ever seen them hit," said coach Smith. That's what made the difference in this game, he said, they outbatted their opponents.

The win advanced the B&J Esso Midgets to the provincial semi-finals and boosted their confidence for their next round with a tough Embro club.

MINDEN 12, EMBRO 11

A disappointing loss to Embro in a tournament earlier in the season was wiped from the players' memories July 29 as Minden took to the field to scrape out a 12-11 victory.

Minden had faced Embro in a tournament in June and suffered a 17-6 loss in a game that lasted only four innings. However, buoyed by their strong play in the quarter finals, the Midgets proved they have more talent than what was shown that day.

"The boys played their best combined offensive and defensive game," said coach Smith. He said all nine players put in strong performances, "winning by playing smart baseball."

With the crowd support clearly in favour of the Embro club, Minden beat the odds to come away the winners. Smith said there were about 50 fans from Embro at the field, outcheering the handful of local fans.

That support helped boost Embro to a 4-0 lead after four innings of play. But the lead wasn't to last.

With Scott Nesbitt pitching a strong game, the bats finally came alive. Jamie Hancock was the leader at the plate, going four for four with a triple, a double and two singles, batting in five runs. And by the end of the sixth inning, Minden was up by three runs.

Embro fought back again in the bottom of the seventh, narrowing the gap to 12-11. With two out and a man on first and third, a hard ground ball was hit to Jason Scarlet at second base. Scarlet made the play to first to wind up the game.

EMBRO 11, MINDEN 2

The long trip to Embro, near Woodstock, took its toll on the Minden team on July 30 as they stumbled through seven innings accepting an 11-2 loss.

The B&J Esso Midgets arrived at the field at 1:45 and were allowed only 15 minutes to "stretch, wake up and warm up," said Smith. "As you might think, we came out flat."

The team launched three protests against the way things were handled by the Embro club, but they were all rejected. "I feel that the fact that the other team wouldn't even allow us a sufficient warm up had a lot to do with this game," said coach Smith.

Even the coin toss was was a bone of contention in this game. Minden won the initial coin toss, but a second one was called for because the coin did not rotate in the air. They lost the second toss.

Jay Hughes and Jamie Hancock were the only Minden players to cross the plate in this game. Pitching for the Midgets were Jamie Hancock and Craig Smith.

Carr's contributions are rewarded

Toni Carr was awarded Volunteer Recognition Award by the Eastern Ontario Section of the Canadian Figure Skating Association at the Annual General Meeting in May of this year.

Toni has spent numerous hours and unending energy with figure skating, helping out, not only the Minden club but the 18 other clubs she represents at the Eastern Section. She has held many positions on the Minden Club and always gives 100 percent and more.

Toni has broadened her skills to be able to judge at test days and competitions in figure skating.

Toni has been an inspiration to skaters and parents alike. She has encouraged them to try tests and go to competitions. She is the first one to give recognition to a volunteer whether it is an amateur coach or a parent.

Toni has helped bring a rather shy, quiet club to a well-informed, eager club. She has been a leader, a worker, a guide and an inspiration to all of us.

Toni was nominated by Peterborough, Ennismore and Minden Skating Clubs. We are most fortunate to have Toni in the Minden Club and see her receive this deserving award.

Peterson hints at assignments for Eakins interfere with the new minister.

According to Eakins, Peterson has hinted that he may have some special responsibilities lined up for Victoria-Haliburton's MPP, although Eakins could not say what those responsibiities might entail.

Being relieved of his portfolio will allow Eakins more time to deal with local issues in the riding. He says not being cabinet will not affect his influence in the government, and he plans to devote more time to the Haliburton Hospital expansion, the Dysart resort sewer line and water levels in Haliburton's reservoir lakes. He said he is pursuing plans to have Health Minister Elinor Caplan visit the county to discuss the expansion of the hospital and related health care issues.

The removal of Kerrio from the portfolio of Natural Resources is a blow to the local effort to improve water levels in reservoir lakes. Kerrio met with members of the Haliburton Highlands Water Level Management Committee in February and forwarded their concerns to federal Minister of the Environmnent Lucien Bouchard.

Replacing Kerrio is Lyn McLeod, who will double-up as Energy Minister as well. Eakins said Kerrio was "an expert" in Natural Resources, but described McLeod as capable and said the efforts on behalf of Haliburton will continue. Eakins said he will be able to apply more presure now that he's relieved of the time constraints placed by cabinet duties.

Eakins, who is 65-years-old, said his age was not a factor in Peterson's decision to remove him from cabinet. "When the party wants you to run as a candidate, they don't worry about your age as long as you can win the riding."

Eakins has been in cabinet for four years. He served as Minster of Tourism and Recreation for two years before assuming the Municipal Affairs portfolio. He says that losing his job as Minister will not affect his decision about whether or not to run in the next provincial election.

A business built on goodwill and faith in the community

It's a long way from a corner hardware store to the 20,000 square foot retail building that officially opens this week as Minden Home Hardware and Building Supplies. but that is how far John and Minnie Pentney have brought their business in the 19 years they have lived in Minden.

The community was a much quieter place when they moved here in May 1970 and took over the operation of the Crest Hardware Store at the corner of Main and Peck Streets. They purchased the business from Walt and Mabel Wideman and continued to operate under the Crest Hardware banner until 1973.

The Pentney's were familiar with retailing, but they were completely new to the intricacies of the hardware business. The couple had moved from Hamilton with their family. John had been a manager of a Loblaws grocery store in that city.

Fortunately, when they purchased the hardware business, employee Loyne Cox agreed to remain on staff. The couple still remember and appreciate the knowledge and understanding of the business Loyne shared with them. He taught them the "nuts and bolts" of the business and they still credit the expertise he shared with them for the basis on which they have built their success.

As the area grew and prospered, several additions were made to the hardware store complex to meet the needs of the growing clientele. However, one of the most significant moves the company made came in 1973. At that time they joined the budding chain of Home Hardware stores, just then reaching across the country.

In June 1978, John & Minnie left Minden to open a Home Hardware Store in Port Perry, leaving John Jr. to operate the store. In 1980 John Jr. and his wife Linda bought the hardware store and operated it until November 1, 1988 when the hardware store and lumber yard amalgamated.

On July 1, 1985, the family opened a building supply division under the Home-All flag. Located across Peck Street, the new division catered to the growing demand of building supplies, lumber and material in the area. The two businesses complemented each other and, along with the growing attractiveness of the Haliburton Highlands, the two prospered.

With the prospect of the area looking brighter, the family decided it was time to search out larger, more convenient quarters. When the property close to the corner of Highway 35 and Main Street became available, they saw an opportunity to bring the two divisions together and build a store that would meet the needs of the area for years to come.

It is just over a year ago that the Bowron Homestead, located on that property, was moved through Minden to the museum's structures, the log home was donated to the community by the Pentneys. Shortly after the building was removed, construction began on the new structure. The building was completed this spring and immediately followed the May holiday weekend, after many long days and nights of work, the new Home Hardware and Building Supply store opened for business.

While John and Minnie Pentney have provided the guidance through the years of growth, they have also brought other members of their family into the business. Sharing the responsibility of operating the store now are sons John and Dave Pentney and daughter-in-law Linda.

DRUNK DRIVING KILLS!

Will alcohol claim you as yet another victim of escalating statistics? Each year, the scene is the same. Friends gather together, and will have a drink or two...or three. Then it's time to go home. Whether around the block or long distance, the effect of even one drink makes you a threat to yourself and others! Reflexes become sluggish and judgement is impaired, in short, you become a potential killer as soon as you get behind that wheel. This season, if you drink, use your head. Don't drive. If a friend has one too many, encourage him to find another way home. Don't let your celebrating lead you down a dead end street...permanently!

Piano, trumpet duet entertains at Hyland Crest

Hello Senior League readers. The ladies and gentlemen from Kennisis Lake came and served our Thursday Tea Party, in the audtiorium. a lady and gentleman entertained us with piano and trumpet music. since it was a birthday tea party, each July birthday person had a decorated cupcake with a candle in the centre. July birthdays were Pearl Lyle, Lillian James, Caroline Jones and Isabella Gardner. We thank the ladies and gentlemen and the musicians most sincerely. They travelled a long way to entertain us.

Thursday night we had bingo with Tom McAllister. Thanks for coming.

Friday Doris & Linda took a bus load of residents to Bobcaygeon for the Step Dancing & Fiddle Competitions. Mark Schell and his staff packed a lovely lunch for us and we ate it on the bus, by the river. Thank you Mark and staff. We really enjoyed it.

After our lunch we went into the Community Centre where the Step Dancing and Fiddle competition was held, for the children under 8 years and then under 12 years. They were then presented with awards and/or money.

Before the adult competitions, Mr. Graham Townsend played the violin. He is renowned around the world for his playing. We enjoyed it very much.

On behalf of the residents, I wish to thank the volunteers who accompanied us and gave such help serving the lunch and all: Sylvia & Dick Thompson, Bob & Dorothy Milne and Jean Robson. Of course, we must not forget Linda & Doris.

Sunday Mable Buttery had Mr. & Mrs. Ron Newbatt and son Ryan to visit; and Monday she had

Minister refuses to dabble with waterway

Federal Environment Minister Lucien Bouchard has sent a letter to Kerrio stating that because the reservoir lakes in Haliburton supply enough water to meet the needs of the federally run Trent-Severn Waterway, he wasn't going to interfere with the system's management, which he called "effective". He did not respond to Kerrio's invitation to visit Haliburton and meet with the committee, but left the door open for the possibility of a feasibility study into increasing the reservoir capacity.

Harry Davis says Bouchard's response is no reason to lose hope. "Sometimes you can change their minds if you have a strong enough case. Bouchard has to be educated." Davis said Haliburton has to keep up the pressure on the federal government.

The water levels committee might have an easier job if there was a longer life-span for government ministers, said Davis. Kerrio is the second minister to lose his job after committing to the water levels issue. Former Environment Minister Tom MacMillan was defeated in last November's federal election after meeting with Davis and promising to make the issue a priority with the Conservative government.

A new chairman for the committee won't be chosen until the next meeting in September but Bill Davis says he will accept the position if nominated. Historically, the chairman of the water levels committee has been an elected member of county council. Since Harry Davis' resignation, Bill Davis is the only remaining county councillor on the committee.

Dysart's Deputy-Reeve says it was never his intention to have Harry Davis resign from the committee. He said Stanhope's Reeve has done a "super job" carrying the fight over the years. He said he was "disappointed and stunned" by the announcement.

But Bill Davis says he still thinks his question about summer meetings was a fair one and he said Harry Davis' answer was defeatist. "Harry may be right, but you have to stay with it," he said. "Maybe if you meet in June, you might get some relief in July."

So far all the hardships caused by low lake levels have been experienced by Haliburton County, says Bill Davis. "You never hear any complaints south of Minden." He feels there should be a way to "equally distribute the hardships" along the Trent system.

Davis says an immediate attempt should be made to open communications with the new Minister of Natural Resources. He wants to see McLeod invited up for a meeting to familiarize her with the issue.

Davis takes issue with Bouchard's claim that the Trent system is being managed effectively. He says water is being wasted because locks along the system are being opened more frequently than necessary.

He also doubts the federal government's sincerity in dealing with the issue. "When Bill Scott's re-election was in doubt, they made a committment. Now that the election's over where are they? Where's Bill Scott's private member's bill?" Davis says he doubts whether Bouchard will remain in cabinet long, given his recent troubles.

However last week Bill Scott renewed his commitment to help find a solution to the low lake level problem. In a telephone interview on Wednesday, Scott said he plans to pursue the matter during a meeting with Bouchard in the near future. He says he will reinforce the issue's importance to the Minister. Scott also said he is still considering a private member's bill as an option to be explored.

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Misplaced survey stakes must be removed

Improperly placed survey stakes for a group purchase of a shoreline road allowance on Black Lake in Lutterworth Township will have to be removed, council concluded at its meeting last Tuesday.

Responding to a request from Marian Lee, who complained that she is losing about 16 feet of the allowance in front of her property because of the misplaced stakes, Council will be asking that the stakes be removed. The property owners involved in the group purchase application will also be advised that council will not accept the closure unless proper procedures are followed.

Lee, who is not involved in the purchase, complained that survey lines, indicating the boundaries of the road allowance to be purchased from the township, angle out in front of her property. She said this cuts about 16 feet from the shoreline road allowance that she is entitled to purchase from the township.

According to council, survey lines for the purpose of purchasing shoreline road allowances must be a straight extension of the existing property lines. Unless this procedure is followed, the municipality can not sell the property.

Lee said her neighbour assumed that she wouldn't do anything to oppose this application. "I've been to two lawyers," she said. "Everyone knows that it's wrong, but I don't know what to do about it."

Councillor Bill Valentine, who used to sit on County Council, said he has seen applications turned down at the county level for this sort of thing. He said the lines have to be perpendicular to the lot. "They can't swing it out," he said.

While examining the group purchase application, council noted that there is another other example where the survey lines angle away from the lot line. Even though the two properties in this instance are owned by the same person, council will not accept the closure until the survey line is changed to conform with proper procedure.

"We're going to have to check this whole application," said Valentine.

Switzerland edged Japan in fun Olympics

by Deneena Davis

Well Summer Funners here we are beginning the second week of our August Programing. Abby and I were both extremely pleased with croquet and pinball. The children seemed to really enjoy themselves and we were all surprised when we discovered that it was time to go. We would like to encourage those who are unsure as to what to expect, to come out and give it a try because we have a great deal of fun. For the children who attended croquet last week we promise to have a new and interesting mini-putt challenge this week, just to keep you on your toes.

We would like to congratulate all of the participants of our play day olympics who represented team Switzerland. It was a close race but they were able to edge out team Japan in the balloon-pop relay to take first place. Other events, including the bowling, dime toss, and the orange relay were a big hit and the time flew as we went through all of the activities. Team Switzerland received red ribbons for their efforts while Japan received blue ribbons. Everyone knows that it is not who wins or loses that is important but rather the fun that we all had. With that in mind medallions were given out on our podium to Cheryl Ripley and Collin MacKenzie who represented our two best behaved and "smiley" pair of the day.

After clean up the Summer Funners made a quick mural to hang in the arena during the Carnival. Both teams would like to thank the members of Rotary for the coupons for a free ice cream cone.

Our play day olympics were such a success that we are going to organize a similar type of day for our grand finale Activity Centre of the summer and we would like to invite all of the children of Summer Fun and their parents to come out and play with us.

This week's Activity Centre on August 9 will feature tissue paper stained glass windows at the craft table. We are always amazed by the wonderful creations and they really will look lovely in the window. We hope to see everyone there and remember that with this type of art your imagination is your only limitation.

Our special mention bulletin this week contains our cheery Mountain Lake crew consisting of Karrel Pfeiffer, Jenny Tiffin, Amy Tiffin, and Tosha Larabee who comprised part of the formidable force behind Team Switzerland. Special mention also goes to Erin Hyland who is a secret weapon on the pinball court.

Council delays ruling on condo project

Progress on Ray Moore's ambitious plan to build condominiums on his property off Newcastle Street in Minden will be delayed until Minden has an opportunity to review a sewer and water capacity report from the Ministry of the Environment.

Council heard several concerns from area residents during a public meeting July 25 regarding Moore's proposal to rezone the property and to amend the townships' official plan. The main concerns raised at the meeting involved parking on Newcastle Street, traffic conditions on Newcastle and St. Germaine Streets, and the ability of the municipal sewer and water works to handle increased capacity.

As a result, council postponed its decision on the matter until August 24, pending the Ministry of Environment report.

Moore, who is also the reeve of the municipality, did not attend the meeting. Instead, his son, Keith, was present to comment on the planned development.

The proposal is to remove the two houses on the hillside property and replace them with 56 condominium units in three buildings. In addition, the plans call for some retail outlets at the base of the hill, facing Newcastle Street.

As part of his presentation, Moore provided architect's sketches of the proposal, which were available for viewing prior to the opening of the meeting. He noted that what the drawings show are just a proposal at this point. Engineers would first have to examine the property before a site plan could be drafted, he said.

The rezoning of the property, which was what council was dealing with that night, had already been given approval in principal by the previous municipal council. That preliminary approval was granted several months before Ray Moore's election as reeve of the municipality.

Before Keith Moore's opening remarks at this special meeting, council heard a complaint from Minden resident Viola Walsh, who objected to By-law Enforcement Officer Brad Bradamore's involvement in the presentation. Prior to the meeting, Bradamore was available to point out specific properties on the architects drawings and to answer some questions from concerned residents.

Walsh told council that, in her experience, she has never seen a development plan presented by a by-law enforcement officer. She insisted that the plans should be presented by a planner or a member of a planning board.

Deputy Reeve Bern Berry, who was chairing the meeting, explained that the municipality does not have a planning board. The municipality has a Planning Advisory Committee, which has recommended the approval of the rezoning. Both Berry and Bradamore are members of that committee.

Berry explained that he asked Bradamore to provide information on the project because he is well versed in the municipalities by-laws. He said he is sorry if council has "strayed from proper procedure" and then invited Keith Moore to comment on the proposal.

Not responsible for private dump sites

The discovery of a private dump next to his recently-purchased property had Larry Rogalski looking to Lutterworth Township Council for relief last Tuesday, but he was told this is beyond council's responsibility.

The real estate agent involved in the sale of the property should have told Rogalski about the private dump, said Councillor Bill Valentine.

The dump, which is used solely by Camp Kilcoo, has been in legal operation for years with approval from the Haliburton Kawartha Pine Ridge Health Unit, council told Rogalski's representative, Wilfred Magpayo. The private dump on Highway 35 is on property owned by Kilcoo and located across the highway from the camp.

Magpayo noted that the township has three public landfill sites and suggested that the camp use those instead of its private site. However, Reeve Carol Puffer said this matter is beyond council's jurisdiction. She suggested that Rogaski contact the Health Unit.

Skaters compete in Niagara

Three Minden figure skaters competed on July 15 in the Niagara Skate in Niagara Falls.

Lisa Carr placed fifth in Novice Competitive Freeskate and sixth in Junior Compulsory Moves.

Cori Barkwell placed first in Juvenile B Ladies Freeskate and fifth in Intermediate Compulsory Moves.

Kristi Barkwell placed fifth in Preliminary Ladies Freeskate and eighth in Preliminary Compulsory Moves.

These three girls have been skating with Lindsay Summer School under the direction of Mike Sanderson and Hilary Simpson.

Their winter coach, Jane Symons, cheered them along in Niagara Falls, as did Helen Burk with her usual colour commentary.

Excellent selection of CERAMIC TILE now in our showroom.

Ball game highlights fun day

by Doreen Berry

Although it was quite hot, once again the weather co-operated with the Minden Lake Ratepayers' Association Annual Fun Day and General Meeting held July 22 at the Berry, Ducey and Tracey properties. Starting with the Northside Blue Jays against the southside Expos ball game, at 1 p.m.. on the Tracey's back lawn, the day was an enjoyable one for all in attendance. The Blue Jay team was just too strong for the Expos this year and trounced them soundly by a score of 26 to 13. The Blue Jay bats were really hot.

Several events were held throughout the afternoon culminating in the following results:

The watermelon eating contest which helped contestants cool off was very competitive. In the nine and under group Kristin Haden was victorious while Wesley vanderValk won in the 10 to 15 group. Edie Crumb was the winner of the watermelon seed spitting contest. It isn't often that one gets a prize for spitting into a pail.

In the mixed egg toss event, winners Natalie Haden with her grandmother Lottie O'Connor outlasted Kristin Haden and Gaten Davis. Egg shells are harder than you think. They can even bounce!

In as a new event, the water relay, the male team of Jeff vanderValk, Jason Poxon, Eric Casper, Raymond Puepke, Wesley vanderValk and Ross Codlin eked out a win in the race to fill up a plastic pail with water, using a small styrofoam cup.

The candy jar guess was more of a challenge this year. Jelly Beans are very deceiving. Stephen Berry, a candy connoisseur, had the closest guess, while Reg Tracey was the lucky winner of the 50/50 draw.

Throughout the day, elimination horseshoe games were held on two sites, with the Flight B group throwing a shorter distance. The final game in the A Flight was a hard-fought back and forth game in which the partnership of Lonnie Dave and Stephen Berry defeated the team of Wally Baker and Bern Berry. The team of Wesley Kent and Hannah Casper outscored the team of Christopher Newton and Marilyn Bell in the B Flight. Roy Mann showed his culinary skills with dozens of wieners on the grill. Two picnic tables were filled to overflowing with a wonderful variety of specialty dishes. When this first course was devoured, the dessert parade began—pies, cheese cakes, tarts, Nanaimo bars. How lucky we were to have such a choice!

Residents object to project

Parking is main concern for neighbouring residents

The proposed rezoning would change the property from Village Residential to Residential Special Policy. The purpose is to allow for a denser development than would be permitted under the present zoning. The township's Official Plan permits up to 37 units per hectare on Village Residential properties. The amendment will allow Moore to build his 56 units on the property.

Susan Beers, who lives on Newcastle Street across from the proposed development, expressed concern about parking for the retail outlets. Moore's plan calls for the creation of 14 parking spaces on Newcastle street, where there will be about five retail and professional units. Beers suggested that all the new parking spaces will likely be filled by the employees of those units and asked where the customers would be expected to park.

According to Berry, this question has already been raised by township planner Bob Lehman. "Our planner has 'red flagged' that, saying you should be concerned," said Berry. Lehman has suggested that Newcastle Street would have to be widened, at the developer's expense, to accommodate parking.

Berry also noted that this sort of concern will be addressed when it comes time to draft a site plan agreement. Specific requirements such as this will be addressed in the site plan agreement, said Berry. The planner will be looking into each of these concerns and if there is a problem, the developer will have to find some way around it or scale down the project.

A related concern was expressed by area resident Chesil Nesbitt. He said the extra parking and traffic in the area will aggrevate an already poor traffic situation on Newcastle Steet. "I've lived here a long time and drove trucks through here. With those parking spaces and cars pulling out in front of you, how are you going to make it up the hill?"

From the point where Newcastle Street hits Main Street up to the Registry Office is a gentle hill that can be difficult to climb in winter conditions. Since the street is an access to Highway 35 it is sometimes used by large trucks, which experience yet more difficulty climbing the hill.

Nesbitt told council he is glad to see the new development but warned that they are going to see trouble down the road if the traffic situation is worsened.

Other concerns raised at the meeting involved the ability of the municipal sewer and water works to accommodate the extra load of this development, privacy of neighbours and the possibility of damage to surrounding buildings from rock blasting during construction.

Berry assured those in attendance that council will be taking all these concerns into consideration when making its decision. He said council will also be considering the employment that this project might create.

"When things like this happen, it means jobs and employment," said Berry. "That's what council looks at too," he said.

Councillor Lewis Stevens echoed Berry's earlier comment that any identified problems can be controlled through the site plan agreement. "I imagine there will be many conditions on this," he said. He attempted to convince the residents that the rezoning is just the beginning of a long process.

"This isn't the end of it. This is just the beginning of (the process), said Stevens. "It gives Mr. Moore the chance to prove that he can do what he says he is going to do. If he can't he'll have to do something about it—change the plans or give up the project."

Emergency numbering system progressing prizes were awarded for the day's events, our Association's 10th Annual Meeting was called to order by President, Ross Codlin.

A brief report was given on the executive's activities for the last year and how the lake emergency numbering system is progressing. All road sign posts should be complete by the end of the summer. Lake water testing for the Ministry of the Environment is continuing and hopefully our lake will be included next year for the septic testing program. After some discussion, the 1990 membership fee was raised to $8 per year to cover increased mailing costs and membership in FOCA. Roger Parsons of the Minden White Water Preserve fielded a few questions and reported on the possibilities of Toronto getting the 1996 Olympic Games.

The nominating committee's list of executive was read and approved by the membership. Serving the members from July 1989 to July 1991 are: Ross Codlin, Gord Sheehan, Francine Newton, Roy Mann, Cliff Scott, Harry Crumb, Wes Kent, Doreen Berry, and the new members Judy Davis, Jim Bell and Hannah Casper. Officers will be chosen at the executive meeting on August 20.

The meeting events over for another year, a tired but happy group gathered up their belongings and headed home.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Tip For The Week

IGA's ground beef is a less expensive cut of beef, but a good hamburger deserves the same cooking care and consideration as a T-bone steak. Coursely ground chuck is a good proportion of fat to lean beef. Handle the meat lightly — the less you handle it, the more tender it will be. Cook to rare (8 minutes), medium (12 minutes), or well-done (16 minutes). A barbeque brings the best results.
